

Perth Hills Mundaring is the “Art” of the Perth Hills

Perth Hills Mundaring is often referred to as the "Heart of the Perth Hills", and this weekend we put the art in heart!

First stop is the Darlington Arts Festival!

Darlington Arts Festival is a free family event with artisan markets, providore food vendors, children's workshops and entertainment, and more. In Lesser Hall there will be a retrospective of work from some of the festival founders including work by Robert Juniper and the Wise Winery tent will be set up in the pavilion with a fantastic line up of live music!

To keep up to date with the event, head over to their Facebook page

When: Saturday 6 and Sunday 7 November

Where: Pine Terrace, Darlington Village

Speaking of Robert Juniper, Juniper Galleries is the former residence, studio and gallery of WA's beloved artist. With monthly exhibitions of established and emerging artists as well as a private collection of Robert Juniper works, it is the best way to experience fine arts in the Perth Hills. The current exhibition is A View From Here by Peter Barker. It is a thought-provoking solo exhibition, which draws on his classical training and explores both landscape and narrative ideas.

Peter has held several solo exhibitions both here and in Malta and trained in Italy and Norway. He brings a distinctly European aesthetic to Juniper Galleries, and this is a show not to be missed.

When: Saturday 6 & Sunday 7 November

Time: 10am-5pm

Where: 41A Dalry Road, Darlington

Mundaring Arts Centre in the Heart of the Hills is a not-for-profit community arts organisation, run by passionate volunteers. Pop in to see the current exhibition Tied Up With String. A project where fifty-five established, mid-career and emerging Western Australian artists were asked to think inside the box and create small, intimate, covetable artworks contained within identical wooden boxes.

When: Tuesday to Friday 10am-5pm

Saturday and Sunday 11am-3pm

Where: 7190 Great Eastern Highway Mundaring

Mundaring Weir Gallery conveniently located over the road from the Mundaring Weir Hotel, sells "unexpected items and art and craft made by local people from local materials".

The current exhibition of watercolours is from guest artist and new hills resident Jimmy March.

When: Friday to Sunday & Pub. Hols 11.30am-5pm

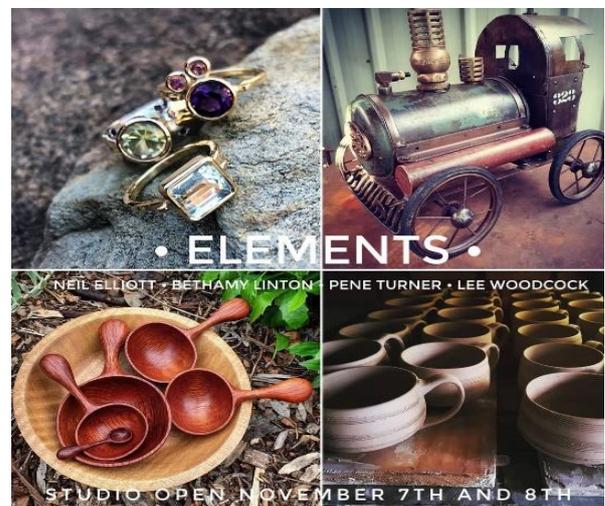

Where: Cr Hall Road / Mundaring Weir Village Road, Mundaring

ELEMENTS Open Studio will be featuring the work of local artists Neil Elliott, Bethamy Linton, Pene Turner and Lee Woodcock. Peruse and purchase paintings, sculptures, wood, silver and ceramics.

When: Saturday 7 & Sunday 8 November 10am-4pm

Where: 12 Springside Crescent, Glen Forrest

Aylward Studios is a studio gallery belonging to artist T. Brian Aylward. Brian has been painting his whole life throughout a variety of careers including toolmaker, orchardist, factory manager, ships engineer, mine foreman, telephone cable technician, prospector, building labourer, lecturer and TAFE Regional Coordinator.

He has always found the Australian light and countryside a great stimulation for his art and enjoys travelling widely throughout the seasons, which provides him with a continual flow of fresh inspiration. Brian works with most media, but is better known for his pastels.

When: 11am-5pm Sunday (or by appointment)

Where: 3995 Werribee Rd, Wooroloo
